Specification

The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: the specification lacks explicit basis for the amended claim language in claim 1 of “the raised ridges formed so as to have a height extending above the cap wafer surface”.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1, 5, 7 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claims contain subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The amended claim 1 language “the raised ridges formed so as to have a height extending above the cap wafer surface” is new matter. There is no description of providing a cap wafer surface and then lithographically forming raised ridges so as to have a height extending above the cap wafer surface. Particularly with respect to claim 13, there is no description of how a surface can be etched, i.e. material removed, and also, at the same time or as a result of the etching, form raised ridges that extend higher than the original surface.

Claims 1, 5, 7 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear how a surface can be both lithographically processed or etched, and at the same time have ridges that are higher than the original surface.

Claim Objections

Claim 13 is objected to because of the following informalities: in claim 13, last line, the term "the cap wafer surface" lacks proper antecedent basis. A complete reading of the claim renders the term understandable in that the cap wafer surface is not the same surface as cited in claim 1, rather it is a surface that has been etched. Applicant could amend the term to cite - the etched cap wafer surface - - to overcome this objection. Appropriate correction is required.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8-12 are allowed over the prior art.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed May 19, 2004 have been fully considered, but they are not persuasive. The amendment raises issues of new matter and indefiniteness. The prior art rejections are withdrawn because they do not teach the new amended limitations.

Applicant argues that the applied art fails to teach the new claim limitation of "the raised ridges formed so as to have a height extending above the cap wafer surface". This claim language is confusing because if a surface is etched, then it is unclear how material can also be added to form a higher surface. Applicant's method of forming ridges is the same as the applied art—that of etching the surface. The ridges are formed contiguously with the wafer surface (see Figure 3b of the instant invention which is substantially the same as Figure 6 of Warfield). The wafer surface is recessed as a result of the etching, which forms raised ridges relative to the etched surface. However, this is not what is cited in the claims as amended.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a).

Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
